

Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission

The giant humpback whale lives in oceans around the world. It weighs about 40 tons and grows up to 65 feet in length.

Humpback whales often make noises that sound like songs. When feeding, humpbacks open their huge mouths and strain shrimp and krill through comb-like baleen plates.

